New Ford Here Friday

Ford Division of Ford Motor Company today announced three completely new lines of Ford passenger cars for 1952. Featuring Coachcraft bodies and more powerful eglnes, the new models are scheduled to go on display in Ford dealerships throughout the nation, Friday, February 1.

There are a total of 18 models in the three new lines—eight in the Mainline series, seven in the Customline series, and three in the Crestline series.

"Ford Mainline cars are for buyers chiefly interested in the lowest-cost, dependable transportation,"explained L.D. Crusoe, vice-president of Ford Motor Company and general manager of Ford Division."The Customline models incorporate many refinements and conveniences, and the Crestline series features three luxurious body styles.

"These Fords for 1952 - in every respect are the finest cars we ever built, and their advanced styling, engineering and quality features establish them as the leaders in the high-volume field," Mr. Crusoe said.

Ford's styling identity is preserved in the low -wide lines of the hood and front-end of the new car, continuing around a triple - spinner, ai.-scoop grille arrangement. The new one-piece curved one-piece windshield and rear windows, and their body lines sweep backward from extended headlights along the hood and fender line to the jet-tube taillight sections.

L. W. Sneed, general sales manager, said that "Ford again leads its field in offering the widest variety and choice of power combinations, safety features and fashion color selections. Ford are the only completely new cars in their field for 1952, thanks to Ford's long range planning program," he stated.

♦ The all-new 1952 Ford Customline Fordor Sedan features a completely new Ford Coachcraft body with curved one-piece windshield and rear window, triple-spinner grille arrangement and body highlights sweeping backward from the extended headlights along the hood and fender to the jet-tube taillight sections. Added styling features of the Customline Fordor are the chrome capped rear fender profiles.

ROTATION ADVISED FOR TOBACCO

Plan to follow a definite rotation in your tobacco field.

S. B. Fenne, plant pathologist at VPI, explains that blackshank, root knot, and all soil-borne diseases are always much more severe when tobacco is grown in the same soil year after year. Even though blackshank-resistant varieties such as Vesta are grown, there will be considerable loss in fields where tobacco has been grown continuously year after year.

Fenne says that researchers at the Chatham branch of Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station, have found that a rotation of tobacco, wheat, and red top one year, followed the second year by wheat and red top resulted in good yields of high quality tobacco. Rotations including a legume such as vetch or clover usually increase the tobacco yields, and also the yield of corn which should follow. However, unless care is taken there is danger of producing heavy, rough tobacco. When corn follows the legume it will remove much of the nitrogen in the soil and result in higher grades in the succeeding tobacco crop, Fenne said.

Ladino Clover Still Best Grass For Pasture

Ladino clover - orchard grass once again has come up as best of pasture mixtures tested by researchers at Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station.

Dairy scientists at the Station, who used the entire dairy research herd last season to test the value of three different pasture mixtures for milk production, have tabulated these results:

Ladino clover - orchard grass produced the greatest amount of total digestible nutrients and milk per acre. It gave 6 1-2 per cent more nutrients and 10.4 per cent more milk than did ladino clover-Kentucky 31 fescue. Ladina clover-orchard grass produced 26.4 per cent more nutrients and 16.6 per cent more milk per acre than did alfalfa-orchard grass mixtures.

Net gains of body weight followed the same pattern, the highest net gains occurring on ladino-orchard grass.

The researchers said an interesting observation was made in respect to the way the cows responded whenever they were turned on a new pasture to graze. On the first day of grazing milk production always dropped regardless of the pasture mixture. On the succeeding three days milk production went up, until the fourth day when it again declined. The researchers say it appears that a higher production could be maintained if the cows were allowed to graze a new pasture lot every fifth day. Grazing longer than this may cause a lowered milk production.

SPRAY PEACHES TO PREVENT LEAF CURL

It's time for home fruit growers to spray to prevent peach leaf curl from appearing when the foliage comes out, says John M. Amos, plant pathologist at VPI.

He explains that leaf curl causes the leaves to thicken, become crinkled and blotchy, and later turn to whitish color and drop off, leaving the fruit, if any, to die and drop. Infection takes place in the buds, and spraying during the dormant season with Bordeaux mixture or lime sulphur will control it effectively.

Details on spraying are available from county agents, or from the Agricultural Extension Service at VPI, Blacksburg.

TEMPORARY CHANGE OF LOCATION

You have doubtless observed the new addition to the old banking quarters, which is only part of the entire program of improvement and modernization.

Within the course of the next several weeks the present banking quarters will undergo drastic changes, resulting in lowering the floor to the street level and a complete rearrangement of the interior with the installation of new modern low type fixtures.

Increased volume of business for which we are deeply grateful prompted us to undertake the program, and while it is in progress it will necessarily inconvenience our customers. We sincerely hope upon its completion that we may serve you with increased efficiency and that all of us will enjoy the modernized quarters to the fullest extent.

Please bear with us while the work is in progress and if someday within the near future the present building does not look like business as usual——

Will You Please Go Up The Stairway In The New Addition . . . And You Will Find Us Ready, Willing And Anxious To Serve You In OUR TEMPORARY QUARTERS

When we move down, sometime within the next several months, we are looking forward to serving you in a completely modernized bank building.

Thanking you for your cooperation in this progressive program, we are yours for service and progress.
